RUSSIAN Labor Movement Promises SUCCESS

BUT THE DETAILS ARE NOT COMPLETED

"A thing is never done until it is finished," remarked J. B. Castle to the Bulletin man this morning, "but there is much that promises for the success of the movement to bring the colony of Russians here to settle on the Kapa lands."

"It is now pretty well up to the Governor and George Fairchild, representing the Mahee sugar plantation, to straighten out the details so that the thing can go ahead. The matters of difference between Mr. Spalding, owner of the plantation, and representatives of the Russian colonists are so small that they may be said to have practically agreed. I have been in business too long, however, to throw up my hat before everything is signed, sealed and delivered. The elders of the Molokans went to Kapa and went over all the lands in question. They are satisfied with the outlook. Mr. Spalding got right down to business when it came to the discussion of the cane-grinding contract with the settlers, which is an all-important matter."

Mr. Castle has done a tremendous amount of work in carrying through this effort to start a colony of settlers who would ally themselves with the main industry and stay by the land. Capt. Demens, with whom he first dealt, was unable to make the trip to Kapa on account of illness, but the elders went along and, while having some very rough experiences on the water found the land attractive and the outlook generally favorable.

Land Commissioner Pratt, who returned yesterday from Kapa, where he conducted the intending Russian settlers over the Kapa lands, and Manager Fairchild of the Mahee Sugar Co., which at present holds these lands under a lease, were closeted with the Governor throughout almost the entire forenoon.

Pratt, when asked about the result of the Kapa trip, seemed very much pleased. He had not, he said, in any way tried to pump the Russians regarding their opinions, but they seemed to be well pleased with what they saw. They had asked many questions and showed great interest. Col. Spalding had accompanied the party on its tour of inspection, and had been eminently fair, telling everything about the local conditions, and had not in any way tried to discourage the settlers from taking up the land, as was often the case when lessees of public lands feared that their lands were to be taken from them for settlement purposes.

Col. Spalding, as Pratt understood it, was willing to surrender his lease for the remaining eighteen months on the condition that the plantation be allowed to take off the crop of cane now growing on the land, or that the settlers do this work for a certain consideration. There was also talk of a proposition whereby the plantation and the settlers should enter into an agreement for five or ten years, whereby the plantation would grind the cane raised by the settlers and give them a certain number of pounds of sugar for each ton of cane delivered at the mill. This could be done in case the settlers should not decide to build a mill of their own. Should they decide to build, Col. Spalding would probably dispose of his present large mill and use a smaller one which he has on hand.

Manager Fairchild was seen just after his interview with the Governor. He stated that the plantation was perfectly willing to cancel its lease on the parts of the tract which it was not using for cane. This included the mauka portion of the tract, pasture land and cane lands on which it would not plant again. As regards the lands on which cane is at present being raised, the plantation would be willing to surrender the lease on those also on the condition that it be allowed to harvest his present crop.

SUGAR ADVANCE

The sugar quotation received today shows an advance in centrifugals to 3.50 cents, or $71.35 per ton. The previous quotation was 3.50 cents, or $70 a ton.

THANKSGIVING

Make Thursday a holiday for all. Dine with your family at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel and then dance to Hawaiian music on the cool lanais. Engage your table immediately.

The arrival of Admiral Goodrich, commander of the Pacific squadron, and part of his fleet in December is indicated by the fact that his wife and daughter left San Francisco for this port in the Logan last Saturday.

Ah Poon, agent for a che fa game, Yong Cheek, having tickets in his possession, and Ah Chong, present where the game was going on, were arrested today by Officer Yee Yap and booked at the Police Station. Their cases will come up in the Police Court tomorrow morning.

Miss Todd Drowned At Hilo

(Special by Wireless.)
Hilo, Hawaii, Nov. 27.—Miss Myra Todd, a telephone operator, was drowned on Sunday while with a boating party near Coconut Island.
The pleasure boat in which were George Day and three girls, including Miss Todd, capsized. All were rescued but Miss Todd. Her body was found this forenoon.

Bulletin Newsboys Big Turkey

The Bulletin Newsboys will have their annual Thanksgiving dinner and outing at S. M. Damon's Moanalua grounds on Thursday. The boys were given their choice and all with one accord spoke in favor of the Moanalua trip. It is in the country, the grounds include the polo field and a whole valley, and the trip is not so long as to be tiresome.

The boys will start out early Thanksgiving morning in trolley coaches of the Territorial Stables. There will be some noise. They will spend the day in sports to suit their pleasure, and stop long enough at noon to devour the turkey dinner served in the pavilion. This, of course, includes the ever-necessary soda water in quantity and quality.

The return will be made in time to allow a trip around town and attendance at the Thanksgiving football game.

TO CHANGE SITE

2 LOG—To change.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Babbitt and Superintendent of Public Works Holloway this afternoon had a conference with Governor Carter regarding the Hilo High school site. While a site was decided on a short time ago a change is being planned and the former action will be reconsidered. It is planned to obtain a new site by means of an exchange for government land. Babbitt will go to Hilo next week to attend to the matter. A Eleven gelsa girls and fifteen Japanese youngsters are rehearsing for a show to begin December 2nd at the Japanese theatre. Several different plays will be put on during the week.

Milverton For Deputy To Peters

F. W. MILVERTON.

Fred. W. Milverton will probably resign as Deputy County Attorney to accept the position of Deputy Attorney General.

Attorney General Emil C. Peters, recently appointed by the Governor to succeed Lorrin Andrews, will, it is understood, appoint Mr. Milverton Deputy Attorney General. This statement was made by one well informed on the subject this afternoon. Mr. Peters was communicated with and replied to inquiries that he had not yet settled on an appointment. He admitted, however, that Mr. Milverton was a very considerable quantity.

Sale Of Tug Eleu Not Legal

Governor Carter has received advice from Washington stating that the sale of the old tug Eleu, which was sold last February to Louis Marks, was illegal. When the sale was made some questions arose as to whether the sale was legal, and as to whether the proceeds should be turned over to the United States Treasury or to the Territory. The matter of the vessel's registry also occasioned some doubts. At annexation she was turned over to the United States with the rest of the government property of the Republic of Hawaii, and being thus a United States vessel she did not have to be documented. When, however, she was turned over to a private party, this became a necessity.

These questions were referred by the Governor to the Department of Commerce and Labor at Washington, which in turn referred them to the United States Attorney General's Department.

The opinion from the Attorney General to the Department of Commerce and Labor shows that the Organic Act provided specifically that all the property transferred to the United States by the Republic of Hawaii should remain in the possession of the government of the Territory or taken for the purposes of the United States by direction of the President or the Governor of Hawaii.

The opinion goes on as follows: "Beyond providing that the public property thus placed under the control of

Misdemeanor Prisoners Says Henry Must Be Kept In Idleness

NO MORE PRISON LABOR FOR PUBLIC PARKS

High Sheriff Henry, who returned from Maui last Saturday, this morning expressed his great dissatisfaction with the result of the Supreme Court's decision in the Wong Lung habeas corpus matter, which held that misdemeanor prisoners cannot be subjected to infamous punishment, and that work by prisoners necessitating their presence in public places in a garb or in such a manner as would subject them to infamy, constituted infamous punishment.

"The result of this is that I have to withdraw all the misdemeanor prisoners from the work they have heretofore been doing, keeping the public parks in shape, and the county will have to pay for that labor. Of course, I might provide them all with plug hats and they could walk about in the parks, picking up a leaf occasionally, so as to give the appearance that the paths were their estate and they were merely out for a walk, but that would hardly be practicable. I shall not make the misdemeanor prisoners do any outside work, so as not to take any risk at all in the matter. I am not going to let the felons do the work in the parks, as that would simply mean giving them a chance to escape, which they are always on the lookout for.

"It seems a peculiar thing that the taxpayers shall be forced to keep the misdemeanor prisoners, paying their hard-earned taxes to support these

Looking Into Broken Law In Regard To Public Realizations

COUNTY FATHERS MEET TOMORROW

Oahu County Supervisors meet at 7:30 tomorrow evening, primarily to pass departmental bills for November.

In addition to routine work, as noted above there are several matters of importance to come before the County Fathers.

The investigation of the Koolau row wherein Road Supervisor Keann was discharged by Supervisor Paie, referred to a special committee consisting of Supervisors Adams and Moore, will not be finally reported on for the reason that the investigation has not yet been made.

Messrs. Moore and Adams were to have gone over to Koolau yesterday, but changed their plans. The investigation will probably be made toward the end of the week.
